Patriotic display

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Right around 5 o'clock Monday – about the time many Californians were heading home from their three-day-weekend vacations – several Kiwanis Club members brought the red, white and blue in for the night.

On many holidays, local service clubs decorate the median on a stretch of West Capitol Ave. between Westacre Rd. and Jefferson Blvd. with a bevy of American flags. And on Monday –Memorial Day – that task fell to Kiwanis volunteers.

Ken Shill and Gordon Work took down the poles late Monday, along with Patti Work driving the pickup truck they used. The trio had been joined by Tony Vendetti at about 7:15 a.m. Monday to put the flag poles up.

Why?

"We do it to show patriotism for our country, and to show respect for those who gave their lives so we might enjoy our freedoms," said Shill.

GORDON WORK and KEN SHILL

Between holidays, the flags are stored by the city of West Sacramento. Other area organizations including veterans clubs alternate the task of placing the flags up on holidays.

School board votes to put $17.1 million bond on Nov. ballot

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

At a special meeting on Thursday, the Washington Unified School District board of trustees voted 3-2 to place a $17.1 million school bond issue on the local ballot Nov. 2.

Opposing the move were board president Pat Flint and board member Irene Eklund, who were supportive of the bond plan but preferred an October special election date for it.

Two previous attempt to pass a school bond have been made in the 1990s; both asked for several times this $17.1 million tab and aimed to build a new high school. The current bond proposal asks for public money to rehabilitate and expand some local school facilities. It does not seek to build a new high school.

By keeping the price tag low (aiming at about $30.00 annually for a home with the local median value of $65,000) the school board hopes to succeed where previous bond efforts have not.

The board's staff report notes that the bond will bring funding for facilities upgrades at all the local schools except for Southport Elementary School, which opened new in 1998. "(The bond) will have broad voter appeal as it will affect nine schools in the community," the report states.

The measure aims to use matching state funds to pay for "critical health and safety needs." The list includes provisions for roofing work for local schools; replacement of portable classrooms, renovation of the gym, cafeteria, cafeteria, library and classrooms at River City High School, and other projects to be funded through the $17.1 million bond if matching state funds are also obtained.

Members of the West Sacramento 4-H Club (pictured) participated in the 65th annual Yolo County 4-H Spring Show from April 31 to May 2 at the Yolo County Fair Grounds in Woodland.

Exhibits included entries from watercolors to theatrical arts to livestock, and all entries were judged. A number of West Sacramento club members won ribbons.

4-H is open to youths from five to 19 years of age. For information on West Sacramento 4-H, call Linda Davis, 372-5768.

ABOUT TOWN: A family that encourages education

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Danny Clayton's parents moved to the West Sacramento area in the early 1960s and Danny went to seventh and eighth grade at Bryte Elementary School and then graduated from Washington High School in 1968.

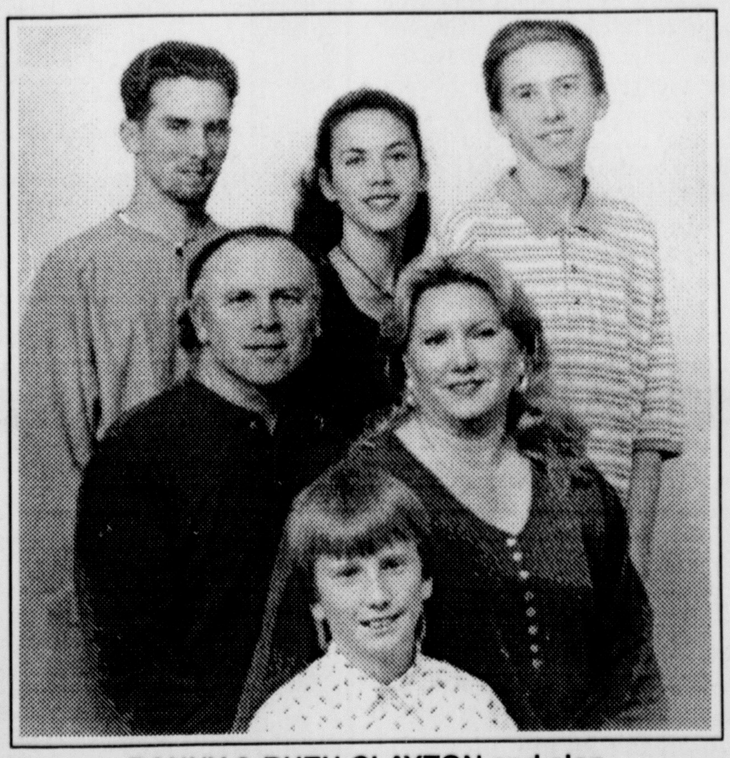

"My dad was an electrician and he worked for the Southern Pacific railroad," recalled Danny. "My summers were always spent working, too, usually in the onion and chili pepper fields near my house. But when I got a little older, I got a job working for Western Union delivering telegrams in downtown Sacramento on my bicycle. I pedaled all over the city and it was a pretty good job, although I still remember how bad I felt when I had to deliver a telegram to a lady who had lost a son in the Vietnam war. It's not the kind of thing you forget."

After high school, Danny attended Sacramento City Junior College and Sacramento State College and also took some electrician classes at American River Junior College after he had decided to go to work for the railroad like his father had done before him.

"I've enjoyed my 28 years working on trains," said Danny. "I've met a lot of good people and I even worked on the CEO's $2 million private car. I've also been able to work my job around the needs of my family, and that's what's really important."

In 1976, Danny met his wife, Ruth, who at the time was living across the street from him with a friend.

"I'm from Los Angeles," said Ruth, "and I liked this area right away. It had a real sense of community that was missing where I grew up. Plus I also liked Danny. He was very nice and we were married in 1978."

DANNY & RUTH CLAYTON and clan

As Danny and Ruth's family began to grow, they both placed a special emphasis on education.

"When the kids were going to elementary school at Holy Cross," explained Danny, "Ruth and I both spent many years on the school board and doing whatever else we could to stay involved in our children's education. I also thought it was really important for them to participate in sports, too, and I've spent quite a few years coaching, umpiring, and refereeing youth baseball games and soccer matches. But it was all worth it and I wouldn't trade those years for anything."

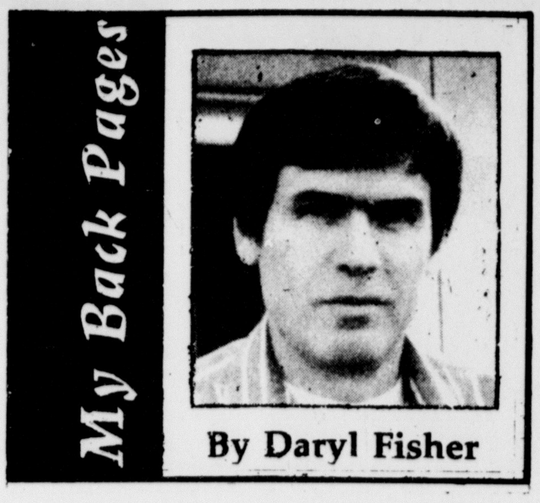

After completing their elementary education at Holy Cross, all four of Danny and Ruth's children have attended River City High School. Their oldest son, Thomas, recently graduated from the University of California at Berkeley Haas Business School. Their second son, David, is a sophomore majoring in business at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and their daughter, Katharine, is a senior at River City who plans on studying ecology at the University of California, Davis next year. Their youngest son, William, is currently a freshman at River City High School.

Danny and Ruth are also caring for five-year-old Sean, who is a special needs child and they hope to become his permanent guardians soon.

"My mother took in drug and fragile babies," explained Ruth, "and when no one else wanted Sean, she took custody of him and brought him with her when she moved up here after my father died. Unfortunately, she came down with cancer and while she was fighting that battle, Danny and I took care of

You can always find something funny on the internet

From time to time, friends and family kindly pass along little humor nuggets they've gleaned from the Internet for possible use in this column. They are always appreciated, and here are a few I've received in the recent past:

You know you've had a bad day when:

You have a 60 Minutes news team waiting in your office.

You put your bra on backwards and it fits better.

Your four year old tells you that it's almost impossible to flush a grapefruit down the toilet.

Smoked Man, $2.09 lb.

Nice parachute, never been opened, used only once, slightly stained.

Georgia peaches, California grown, $.89 lb.

Full sized mattress, 20 year warranty, like new, slight urine smell.

1983 Toyota Hunchback, $2000.

One man, seven woman hot tub, $850.

Ride that bike -- safely

From the West Sacramento Police Department

May 1999 was Bicycle Safety Month. The words "wear a helmet" can save a child's life!

This spring and summer, more than 400,000 children under the age of 14 will end up in hospital emergency rooms with serious bicycle injuries – some of them fatal. Did you know that one-third of these injuries could be prevented if the children wore their helmets? Even with many states mandating helmet wear, more than 90 percent of kids under the age of 14 don't wear them regularly.

This is the perfect time to remind our children, and adults alike, of some important safety rules:

Always wear a helmet when you ride.

Always do a safety check before you ride. Be sure nothing on your bike is wobbly, loose or cracked.

Never give anyone a ride on your handlebars.

Be alert for things on your path.

Avoid riding at night. Walk your bike home or have someone pick you up instead.

Wear a strap or rubber band to keep your pants from getting caught in the chain.

Stop at all stop signs.

Be careful when checking traffic and don't swerve when looking over your shoulder.

Always go with the traffic flow and keep to the far side of the road.

Parent tips:

So, your child wants a bike. That's reasonable. They're great fun. Every child wants one. But before rushing out and buying your child a bike, ask yourself the following questions:

Is my child old enough and mentally and physically ready to ride a bicycle in neighborhood traffic? (A bicycle is not a toy when it is ridden in traffic. The cyclist is governed by the same traffic laws as automobile drivers.)

Do we live in an area that is not congested with vehicular traffic? Am I willing to see that my child receives proper instruction on how to safely operate a bicycle before permitting to ride on the street?

If your child isn't ready to ride a bicycle on public streets and still wants a bicycle, then consider the following:

Are there safe places to operate a bicycle near my home places such as empty lots, parks or bicycle paths?

If your answer to this question is no and your child isn't old enough to ride on the street, then the question of buying your child a bike must also be answered no. You may be saving your child from serious injury or even death by taking a firm stand.

When you and your child have determined that he or she is ready to have a bike, what's next? Buy the bicycle? Before you do, there are several considerations to keep in mind.

Fit the bicycle to the child. A bicycle that is too large or too small is both dangerous and uncomfortable to ride. To determine the proper-size bike, the cyclist should be able to sit on the seat and balance the bicycle with the tops of the toes resting comfortably on the ground. The bicycle should not lean to one side or the other. The seat may have to be adjusted to accomplish this.

Young children should not attempt to operate a bike with hand brakes. Wait until they have developed greater strength in the hands and wrists before buying a bike of this type.

For maximum safety, bicycles should be equipped with: a warning bell or a horn; chain guard; coaster brake; reflective devices on front, rear, sides and pedal; a day-glo safety flag; a white front light; a red rear light; and handle grips.

For additional safety, riders should use pant leg clips, wear bright colored clothing and always wear an approved helmet.

Learning to ride a bike safely takes many hours of practice. Young children should demonstrate basic maneuvers in a safe area before being allowed on public streets. In fact, children younger than seven years of age need close supervision even when they are permitted to ride on quiet neighborhood streets.

For further information on bicycle safety and how you can register your bicycle, contact the West Sacramento Police Department at 372-2461.

RC brings it to the brink

From River City High School

For the second time in three years, the River City High School tennis team has seen an outstanding season come to an end at the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III Final Four. After defeating Mira Loma 3 to 2 in the Section quarterfinals last week at R.C., the Raiders were upended 4 to 1 by Livingston in the semifinals at Stockton's Oak Park. The loss brings to a close another tremendous campaign for the Raiders who won the Golden Empire League championship for the fourth straight season and finished with a 21-2 overall record in 1999.

In the quarterfinal contest against Mira Loma, River City won three blowouts to quickly eliminate the Capitol Valley Conference champions. Senior Aaron Potnick defeated the Matadors' Jared Roberts 6-1,6-3 in the boys singles match, Sue Yang and Sokpin Phoung "double bageled" Jess Morse and Linda Dang 6-0,6-0 in girls doubles, and seniors Loan Nguyen and Kam Insixiengmay cruised in mixed doubles 6-1, 6-0.

To Mira Loma's credit, though, the Matadors continued to play hard after the overall outcome had been determined. The C.V.C. champs received wins from Sara Bakhtary, 6-3, 7-5 over River City's Khonesavanh Lattasima, and the boys doubles team of Tim Smith and Brian Wanlass won 6-3, 6-3 over the Raiders Prak Pich and Huy Truong.

In the semifinal loss to Livingston, the champions of the Trans Valley League, the Raiders were picked off by a team they had defeated soundly 7 to 2 during a preseason match in early March. This time, however, the playoff format of a best-of-five contest worked against R.C. as it took away one of the Raiders greatest strengths -- depth. In addition, the Wolves lineup was bolstered by the return to action of number one boy Noe Cortez who had been unable to play in March.

Still, River City had its chances and Raider Coach Dave Brooks wasn't making excuses after a tough loss. "We had opportunities to win four of the five matches and we just didn't get it done. When it was tied at one match each with three yet to be decided, I truly believed we would win those three. We were ahead or about even in all three and we needed to win at least two of them. But give Livingston credit, they got us in all three."

Lattasima won her girls singles match easily, 6-0, 6-1 over Livingston's Linda Chavez, while in boys doubles Pich and Truong fell 3-6, 2-6 to Jorge Maldonado and David Soria. In the three matches that Brooks was referring to, Potnick was defeated by Cortez 4-6, 4-6, Yang and Phoung had a second set 4-0 lead slip away and were downed by the Wolves' top two girls, Elvia Hernandez and April Alvarez 4-6, 5-7, and Nguyen and Insixiengmay lost after taking the first set from Lina Avila and Salvador Salazar 7-5, 4-6, 6-7 (7-4).

In the other semifinal, St. Helena defeated Amador 4 to 1. The Saints then beat Livingston 4 to 1 for the Section Championship.

"It was a difficult way to end another great season, and its hard for all of us to put it in perspective right now because the kids and I feel we could have won the whole thing," said Brooks. "But the pain of losing this one will fade somewhat, hopefully soon, and we'll remember what a truly great year this has been."

Boating tips: how not to drown—

From the Department of Boating and Waterways State of California

With warmer weather finally around the corner, the California Department of Boating and Waterways has issued a safety reminder to boaters to check their craft and safety equipment before heading to the water.

Check the weather before heading out, and make sure your boat is seaworthy and your engine and equipment are in good working order. Boats not used during the winter months should undergo a thorough check for serviceability.

"These few things can mean the difference between a safe, enjoyable trip and tragedy," said Carlton Moore, Interim Director. "Also, many accidents occur in spring due to challenging weather conditions. Many accident victims drown because they aren't wearing their life jackets." With an above-average Sierra snowpack, Northern California rivers may continue at above-average flows well into the boating season, although the southern rivers are projected to be running lower than average.

Amy Rigby of the Department's boating accident unit recommends that river boaters wear their life jackets at all times on the water. River conditions can change quickly, due to weather and water releases, resulting in increased danger. Boaters should also wear wetsuits in cold conditions, for protection against hypothermia, especially in situations where capsizing is a possibility. Those new to whitewater boating should consider taking a commercial trip with a professional guide, or getting professional instruction before venturing into swift-moving waters.

"Boaters should beware of new snags and debris creating underwater hazards this year," warned Rigby. "Most mountain rivers are still too cold for swimming or wading, and the currents may be swift, strong, and not always visible."

A good one.

That first time in court was not a pleasant one. Robert had vandalized a wall and shoplifted three CDs. But the second time wasn't so bad. This time Robert could report that his grades had improved, he'd repainted the wall, and he'd paid back the store owner for the CDs. Best of all, he and his parents were finally listening to each other, thanks to the family counseling the judge had ordered.

What happened? You happened!

Because of programs like these and support from people like you, it's unlikely Robert will have reasons for going to court a third time.

The governor's West Sacramento mansion

Though it's still quite easy to picture the embattled Triple-A stadium being built on this side of the river, the possible new California governor's mansion presents a different story.

You may have read last week that West Sacramento's Mike McGowan, Yolo County Supervisor, has rallied the supervisors to oppose a state senate bill which would authorize the construction of a governor's residence "in the city of Sacramento." Yolo's leaders felt it was appropriate to remove the "Sacramento" requirement and open up bidding to sites in West Sacramento, which happens to have riverfront property in walking distance of the capital.

It is indeed appropriate to allow any area in the immediate region of the state capitol building to be included in the bid process for a governor's mansion. The city of Sacramento should not have a "lock" on the process for no good geographical reason. This is a state bidding process and not a "city of Sacramento" bidding process. Instead, West Sacramento and any other jurisdiction in easy commute distance of the capitol ought to be allowed to forward a site proposal, and each site's location can be considered on its own merits. If the state wishes to restrict the area of eligible sites, it should do so by dictating a maximum radius in miles from the capitol, and not by restricting bids to Sacramento city boundaries.

Some West Sacramento landowners are eager to put in a bidding proposal to build a governor's mansion in West Sacramento, and no doubt this interest contributed to the supervisors' actions. But it is difficult to imagine a success from any West Sacramento proposal.

This is not the Triple A stadium. In that case, West Sacramento took a lead over Sacramento opposition because its site was in many ways the best in the region. It is the governor's mansion we are now talking about -- a great emblem of the seat of government and all its power, and a place to entertain nationally and internationally prominent political figures. Sacramento is, before all else, the state capital, and landing a successful bid for a governor's mansion site is both feasible and crucial to that city.

The chances that Sacramento will let this bid be awarded outside the city without serious opposition are just about nil. Indeed, the city can be expected to do whatever is necessary, politically and economically, to win any bidding process.

That said, it's nice to see McGowan and the supervisors stand up in favor of opening up the bid process. West Sacramento is correctly seen as a city coming into its own, and one that is more and more able to demand a fair shake. Anytime local officials can stand up for local rights -- with dignity and statesmanship -- they will move the city closer to obtaining that fair shake.

Guns for defense

While many say the world would be a better place if we could only get rid of the nasty guns, history and modern experience both tell us differently.

In the 13th century, English peasantry maintained a murder rate at least as high as in the U.S. today with knives and rocks. In Jamestown, Virginia, in 1622, 350 colonists were killed with household tools. In the 19th century, Malays running amok frequently killed as many as five victims with an edged weapon before being subdued. Today we find that serious use of knives or handguns result in 15 to 17 percent fatalities.

Firearms are used for defense over two million times a year. The effectiveness of firearms comes from the chemical propellant in the cartridge rather than the strength of the user's arm. Yes, this means a ten year old can shoot a six foot cop; but it also means an 87-year old woman can defend herself from a healthy rapist. The shoot-at-a-distance firearm does not even place the defender in reach of the attacker, as does a knife or even an electric stun device.

The ability of handguns to stop an attack instantly means that ninety-nine times out of a hundred, the assailant flees or surrenders before a shot is fired. When guns are fired, the noise quickly brings the police, which is all the better for the honest defender.

Knives are cheap, deadly, concealable, unregistered and silent. Let's let the honest citizens carry guns.

Remembering Shel

(West Sacramentan George Potch submitted this tribute to author Shel Silverstein this week. Silverstein, who died in May, was the author of many children's stories, songs and other works including such youngsters' classics as "Where the Sidewalk Ends." Potch served with Silverstein in the military. – Editor)

Author, cartoonist, songwriter, etc., Shel Silverstein passed away recently. Many readers familiar with his work are aware that he was known for many years as an author and illustrator of children's books. His cartoons, though somewhat bizarre, can easily be seen as relevant when recognized as component parts of each poem or story.

Shel's cartoons and satire depicting military life appeared in the newspaper Pacific Stars and Stripes, and brightened the lives of many of us in the service during the Korean conflict. Much has been and has been written about Mr. Silverstein, but that's not what this is about. It is meant to serve as a tribute to a guy that I knew a long time ago, on behalf of myself and all who enjoyed his work.

So this is for Shel
A guy really swell.
An old army buddy
With features quite ruddy.
It's easy to see that I'm not a poet
If you read on, you're bound to know it.
I still carry bruises from the times I fell down
Looking back I can see that I looked like a clown.
Always tried to get close to the mess hall table
After those falls I was just barely able.
Had to keep on, even when I fell
'Cause at that table was my hero Shel.
Always enjoyed stories that he told
No doubt some have been written and long since sold.
What else can I say but for now, "farewell"
We readers will miss the talented Shel.
I know we'll all meet in heaven after a spell
'Cause I know our old buddy is not headed for ___.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY NOTES

The Sacramento river registered 22 ft. 6 in. U. S. gauge at the S. P. bridge yesterday. During the past three weeks the river gauge has been hovering around this level with few material changes, although it went as high as 26 ft. 2 in. and down to 20 ft. 4 in. At this writing it appears as if a steady fall was at hand, to continue downward till September or October.

The extremely high stage of the river all spring has been a sad experience for Sacramento river fishermen. No fish to amount to anything have been taken, and salmon have been especially scarce. The cold snow water in the stream is blamable for this condition. Today the fishing season for shad and bass closes for market fishermen but anglers may continue during the summer months. The salmon season does not close till September.

A. Moragna of Bryte pleaded guilty before Judge Barry yesterday on the charge of allowing his stock to run loose. He was arrested by Constable Buckingham and pleaded guilty after which he was fined $15, which he paid.

Mrs. Angelina Simonini returned to her home in Suisun last Wednesday evening after spending a week with her parents. Her sister Mary went to Suisun last Saturday. Both had been here to see the '49 Celebration.

Mrs. J. N. Bennetts is home from Grass Valley, where she spent a few days visiting relatives.

Dick Strong, candidate for District Attorney of Yolo County, was around town last Wednesday doing a little politics. Dick has been a candidate several times but failed to land the job. He believes that there is nothing like trying, and may be lucky some day.

Jed Lee has been appointed deputy constable in Bryte, following the resignation of E. C. White, by Constable Buckingham. From reports current it appears White intends to be a candidate to oppose Buckingham at the coming election, but so far he has not announced himself to the Independent. Should White become a candidate it seems that a third man will step into the fight to make it interesting. The name of the third candidate has not yet been mentioned only in a confidential way to some friends who have volunteered their support. Lee was deputy several years ago and knows the ins and outs of the game.

Mrs. A. C. Williams and daugter of Woodland were guests at the Smith home on Elizabeth Street during the '49 Celebration.

Mrs. Richard Derr and two daughters Clara and Anna were visitors with Mrs. G. Newton yesterday on their way to Germany. They come from Red Bluff where Derr is the owner of a large bakery. Four years ago the family lived in Washington for a period of five years, where Derr operated the Home Bakery. Mrs. Derr and children will remain in Europe till next fall when she will return with her husband who is now preparing to visit in Europe also.

The wonderful shade of the Washington school grounds has become a drawing card for many Sacramento residents who cross the bridge Sundays and holidays to picnic on the grounds. The splendid manner in which the grounds are kept also induces visitors to come and enjoy themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Allerton returned from a visit in San Francisco.

Mrs. Mattie Steward left last Wednesday for Cleveland, Ohio, where she will visit with her son, Ralph Steward.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Ford of Roseville were guests Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Cook.

The date of the opening of the fall term of the Washington school was set as September 11th at a meeting last Wednsday night of the trustees.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gordon returned to Napa after a holiday visit in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. William Statum returned to Stockton, accompanied by Miss Clarice Talbot last Monday.

Mrs. W. B. Scott and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Reardon of San Francisco, were guests at the home of Mrs. Annie Edwards last Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. J. H. McNevin, who has been confined to her home by illness, is able to be about again.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Cook and son and Mrs. Ann Chambers of Washington, with Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ford of Roseville and Mr. and Mrs. Will Gordon of Napa, motored to San Francisco to attend the commencement exercises of the State Teachers' College. Miss Ethel Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Cook, was one of the graduates of the college.

Max Ortiz came up from San Francisco for a week-end visit with his parents and the '49 Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pagnello of Lodi were guests during the Days of '49 Celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Pagnello. Mrs. Ward Pagnello went to Lodi for a short visit on their return.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eugene have gone to Fallon for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Brisbin and Mrs. Flossie Grigsby of Napan returned to their homes after a visit in Washington for the '49 Celebration.

Mrs. Forest Stumbo of the Cosumne district returned to her home after spending the past week as a guest at the home of Mrs. Fred Moser.

Mrs. F. L. White, Jr., entertained Saturday at a dinner in honor of the birthday of her husband. The guests included only relatives. Present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Jasper of Wheatland, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Cameron, Miss Essie White, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. White, Jr., Messrs. F. L. White, Sr., Norman White, Howard White and Wallace White.

Mrs. H. W. Livingston of Richmond returned to her home on completing a week-end visit with her niece, Mrs. Gerald Clifford.

Mrs. A. G. Lewis and children of Merced spent the week-end as guests at the home of Mrs. Lewis' mother, Mrs. Lawrence Speicher.

Mrs. Irma McKinnon of Vallejo was a week-end guest at the home of Mrs. J. D. Barry.

Durward Snider of Lodi spent the week-end visiting at the A. A. Dassonville and Frank De Riso homes.

Mrs. Callie Freeman and Mrs. Lester Collins of Stockton returned to their homes after a visit at the Eli Talbot home for the '49 Celebration.

Mrs. F. L. White, Sr., is visiting in Berkeley.

Miss Theodora Crase and Miss Cecil Hooper came up from San Francisco for a visit at the home of Mrs. E. Newton to see the '49 Celebration.

Orville Camp and Charles Hallowell of Grants Pass, Ore., were week-end visitors at the I. K. Manchester home on their way to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lydia Keenright of Washington and Wilbur Moss of Grass Valley were married Saturday at the home of the bride's father, J. Steinbaugh. They will make their home in Grass Valley.

YOLO AND APPELLATE COURTS REVERSED BY SUPREME COURT

Woodland, May 30.—By a decision just rendered by the State Supreme Court a ruling of the Third District Court of Appeals and a jury verdict in the Yolo Superior Court are both reversed in the case of Thomas O'Connor versus the West Sacramento Co., involving the termination of a lease, and tried here in 1917 before Judge Wm. A. Anderson.

The jury in the Yolo Superior Court awarded O'Connor $13,763.70 as compensation from the West Sacramento Co. for the termination of a lease held by O'Connor. The latter had asked for $20,451.75. The West Sacramento Co. had acknowledged that O'Connor was entitled to $2,955.52.

The West Sacramento Co. appealed to the appellate bench and the verdict in the Yolo Superior Court was upheld. The West Sacramento Co. then was granted a hearing by the State Supreme Court and the decision of this tribunal completely upsets the judgment of the Appellate Court and the jury verdict of the Yolo Superior Court by awarding O'Connor only the amount admitted due to him by the West Sacramento Co., or $2,955.52, with interest from November 2, 1917, at the rate of 7 per cent, plus the plaintiff's costs of the first trial; the appellant to have his costs of appeal deducted from the judgment.

ROAD FROM FREEPORT TO HOOD OPENS TOMORROW

The river road is scheduled to open Saturday but at all events it will be open to traffic next week at the latest.

This was the announcement made by County Surveyor Drury Butler last Wednesday, who has been in charge of recent operations in the down river district.

The river road has been closed over what is known as the Hood Gap, and travel down river was forced via Franklin.

With the opening of the Hood Gap travel may proceed practically to Rio Vista over pavement save for a few short detours and gaps. The gap below Hollisters will be completed a week or so after the main gap but travel can get by satisfactorily by detour.

Butler has ordered workmen to remove sand from the road Saturday, and in event this is done promptly, he says the road should be open to travel at that time.

That portion between George Green's and Randall Island is completed, but will not be open for travel until June 15th, but an easy detour is available. This is according to Engineer Ed A. Araujo, who had charge of the actual construction of the road.

During the jam of the '49 Celebration it was wonderful to see gray-haired men obeying the orders of boy scouts at street crossings.

VALUED FRIENDS AND OLD RESIDENTS OF WASHINGTON PASS

JAMES H. FEENY

During 39 years James H. Feeny served the S. P. Company as a machinist and ten years ago when he was pensioned he retired with the rank and pension of a foreman machinist.

Quiet, unassuming and reasonable, he worked his way from journeyman and never in his 39 years of active service gained the ill-will of a brother worker.

"Jim," as he was familiarly known, believed in doing his share and in so doing set the example for his co-workers.

Particularly was Jim Feeny admired for his steadfast care and attention to his family. Today that family mourns his loss as few fathers and husbands are mourned.

At his death he was 72 years 6 months and 1 day old. He was a native of Ireland but at the age of two years came to the United States with his parents. He was married in Philadelphia 43 years ago to his wife, Mary, who survives him. To them were born, Mrs. J. J. Wolf of San Francisco, Catherine A. and Dr. D. J. Feeny of Sacramento. He died as he lived, a strict Catholic, fortified with the sacraments of his church.

His funeral was held last Tuesday, May 31st, from his home in Sacramento, thence to St. Francis church, where regular requiem mass was said for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Joseph's Cemetery was private.

During 25 years of his life he was a resident and taxpayer of Washington, and was always active in its civic affairs. Eleven years ago the family moved to Sacramento.

PATRICK MULHOLLAND

Friday, May 26th, Patrick Mulholland died in a hospital in Woodland, the immediate cause of his death being cancer of the stomach.

Following the trade of fisherman for many years, Pat made his home in a houseboat on the river about half a mile north of town. Here he enjoyed a secluded life that suited him, never worrying others about how they wanted to live. He made frequent trips to Washington and Sacramento, however.

Never married, Patrick Mulholland was singular in his ideas of community life. He loved the birds and other creatures of nature and enjoyed their communion.

During 30 years he was a resident near Washington, always keeping his own counsel and making a living at his calling.

He was 73 years old at the time of his death.

To mourn him he leaves a brother, Hugh, of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah James of Sacramento.

His funeral was held from the Nauman parlors last Monday and was private, interment being in St. Joseph's cemetery.

AUGUST FREDERICK ROSE

Tuesday, May 30th, Decoration Day, August F. Rose died in Vallejo of heart disease.

His death was sudden and unexpected for nearly up to the day of his death he had attended to his work in the Mare Island Navy Yard.

Rose was the husband of Rose E. Rose, formerly Rose Hauser, who was born and raised in Washington. About 15 years ago the family moved to Vallejo where it remained till his death.

Besides his wife, he left two sons, Edwin H. and Alfred J. Rose. He was 56 years old at the time of his death.

His funeral was held last Thursday afternoon from a Sacramento undertaking parlor, interment being in the City Cemetery.

It is understood that Mrs. Rose may return to take up her old home in Washington with her aged father, Henry Hauser, and her two boys.

Prohibition apostles might inform a curious public why attendance at the Ohio Penitentiary has reached high-water mark, the convict overflow sleeping on cots.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WELCOME THEATRE WILL OPERATE AS LONG AS VENTURE PAYS

So long as the residents of Washington patronize the Welcome Theatre to make it self-sustaining the doors will be kept open, but should the patronage fall off to make the business a losing one the venture will be dropped.

This decision has been reached by those now in charge of the theatre.

Dr. T. H. Dixon of Knights Landing has turned over the business to Olga Machado, Lillian Lear and E. Hamm. They will continue to operate on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays and will give the best possible shows that can be had by a theatre of this size.

A sample of those shows was shown last night when Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid" was screened at the theatre.

Mrs. Machado will continue at the piano, Miss Lear will take care of the door and Mrs. Hamm will operate the film machine.

These people deserve the support of the people of Washington. This is the first public venture in the town and may encourage others to come. Without public support it cannot continue.

True, the theatre is not so up-to-date as some in Sacramento, but that should be no bar to public patronage. In towns not half so large as Washington picture show houses make successes. Knight's Landing is an example, where there are two theatres.

The trouble here seems to be that many people want to cross the bridge to see the white lights of the Capital City.

"Real" means royal and "tor" means bull.

Some "real" wit.

UP-RIVER ROAD CONTRACT LET TO TEICHERT & SON

Woodland, May 30.—Contracts involving the sum of $112,000 were awarded to A. Teichert & Son for the work of making a new improved road of about four miles, at meeting of the Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The new road work is on the levee of the Sacramento river, from the by-pass to Herman Waldek's barn, a distance of four miles.

Specifications call for a finish of dark asphalt, which is indicative of good roads in that section, where they have so long been needed.

The same contractor was awarded the contract of handling the work of improving the road through Broderick, from where the paving ends to the west end of the Sacramento river bridge.

The bid of Clark & Henry for the road work on the east extension of Main Street was thrown out by the Supervisors, the cost being excessive.

Coming up in local government

The Sacramento-Yolo Port District's board will meet at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, June 3, for a meeting to include receipt of the port's April financial report, a fiscal year 2000 budget recommendation, and a report on a two-by-two meeting with City of West Sacramento officials. The port commission meets at 3251 Beacon Blvd., Suite 210, Room 5.

The Yolo County Board of Supervisors and the West Sacramento City Council plan a special joint meeting for Wednesday, June 16. Agenda details and times have not yet been released.

The Yolo County Board of Education plans a special meeting for Thursday, June 3, at 9 a.m. at the Yolo County Office of Education, 1240 Harter Ave., Woodland Room, Woodland. The chief agenda item is a discussion of the proposed 1999-2000 budget.

The City of West Sacramento Planning Commission will meet at 6 p.m. on Thursday, June 3, at 2101 Stone Blvd. in the city's council chambers. The agenda will include a Southport Industrial Park lot line adjustment; a Southport Industrial Park map modification involving a circulation plan change and the possible removal of the planned Enterprise Blvd. bridge.

The West Sacramento City Council will meet tonight (June 2) at 2101 Stone Blvd., in the council chambers, with public session beginning at 7 p.m.

Agenda items include:

Presentation of awards for the "48 Hours in the Life of West Sacramento" photo contest;

Proclamation declaring June 6-13 "Affordable Housing Week";

Presentation by Country Day School and direction to staff regarding zone text change. (Country Day School plans a high school of up to 500 students and an elementary school of up to 300 students east of Fountain Dr. in the Lighthouse Development area.)

Consideration of agreement regarding public improvements financing for the Linden West, South Linden West and Pheasant Pointe developments.

Consideration of a memorandum of understanding with the local school district to jointly fund a police officer as a "school resource officer."

Consideration of an amendment to contracts with Connerly & Associates and Applied Development Economics for state/federal overlay requirements;

Consideration of a resolution of participation in the Pacific Housing Finance Agency Lease to Own home ownership program;

Workshop on a general plan amendment to eliminate the future extension of Enterprise Blvd. from the city's list of circulation improvements;

Consideration of various actions related to forming CFD No. 10 (Gainsborough and Classics developments in Southport).

Sean. My mother died earlier this year, and now Sean is an important part of our family. He has had a stroke and is on a special diet to prevent seizures, but he's doing really well for a child that no one expected to live to see his second birthday."

"Ruth is a wonderful person and mother," said Sister Cora, who heads the Washington Unified School District Family Literacy Program where Ruth works. "She supervises our daycare center and all the children have fallen in love with her. If I was looking for the perfect couple to be parenting models for others, it would be Danny and Ruth Clayton. They are always there for their children, and that makes a huge difference in a child's life."

"I've known Danny since we roomed together after high school in the house he bought from his parents," said longtime West Sacramento resident Nels Eklund. "He still lives in it and he still has a heart of gold. He always puts his family first and he's always nice to everyone. I can't think of enough good things to say about Danny Clayton."

Danny currently serves on the Parks and Community Services Board and he even recently found time to run for the WUSD Board of Education. He is also the past president of Local 800 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

"West Sacramento is still a good place to raise children," said Danny. "All four of mine have received a very good education, both at Holy Cross and at River City High School."

"West Sacramento's reputation is so undeserved," added Ruth. "Not only are our local schools much better than people think, but the streets I walk every day to meetings are very safe. The people are also wonderful and Danny and I wouldn't live anywhere else."

Thanks go to Ramco Enterprises for their cooperation and to the News-Ledger and West Sacramento Press for pre-sale publicity. The next sale will be held in early fall.

Focusing on winners

Judges in the city's first annual "48 Hours in the Life of West Sacramento" photo contest were hard at work recently (pictured, right), deciding who wins $500 and other prizes.

The contest was open to different age groups and to both West Sacramento residents and others.

Winners will be announced at tonight's West Sacramento City Council meeting, which begins its open meeting session at 7 p.m. in the council chambers at 2101 Stone Blvd.

A Stadium Worth Waiting For

By West Sacramento Mayor Christopher Cabaldon

People throughout the region are rooting for West Sacramento in its effort to bring about a Triple-A baseball stadium. There have been many months of planning and negotiation devoted to the project. There's respect for the city's leadership in initiating the regional alliance to finance the stadium – sparing residents any new taxes. There's admiration for the River City Baseball Association, standing by its belief in our riverfront as the ideal setting for its urban ballpark. And of course, there are the fans who look forward to the return of top-notch professional baseball for the first time in 25 years.

As the judicial process addresses issues raised by the Friends of Sacramento County, there should be no doubt about West Sacramento's commitment to the stadium. There are many reasons why the project is important to our community:

❑ First, baseball – as family-oriented entertainment – will help promote West Sacramento's positive quality of life throughout the region. This will complement the city's identity as a regional commerce center.

❑ The stadium will help attract new people to West Sacramento, a growing, young city in a prime location with exciting residential and employment opportunities.

❑ Finally, the stadium will help stimulate development of the 180-acre riverfront Triangle area south of the Tower Bridge, encouraging office, residential and commercial uses.

For all these reasons, the city of West Sacramento continues to play a key role in supporting the stadium project. Two members of the City Council are representing the city as members of the River City Regional Stadium Financing Authority – joining elected representatives of Yolo and Sacramento counties – in approving the issuance of the revenue bonds to finance the stadium. City staff continues to work with the River City Baseball Association to help in the relocation of tenants vacating the stadium site as demolition proceeds. The city has presented in court the extensive history of environmental studies addressing development within the Triangle.

As Mayor, I wish to assure you that the city is committed to moving the project forward. The opportunity to work together on a project of multiple benefits to the community and the region is too great to let pass.

This column, written by City of West Sacramento staff, covers a variety of topics concerning the City of West Sacramento's government and services. If you have a concern that you would like to see addressed in a future article, please send your questions to: Town Hall Talk c/o The News-Ledger, 816 Westacre Road, West Sacramento, CA 95691

(NAPS)—Two emerging consumer trends, the increased use of credit as payment and the use of the Internet as an information source, are merged with a new website that offers consumers reliable, comprehensive and confidential advice about managing credit—all at the click of a mouse.

"This website is a great tool for consumers. It will help them better understand how they're spending and how to better manage the debt they owe," said Durant Abernethy of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit. "Most importantly, the site is full of information that will help people avoid problems with credit and debt."

The website, called Credit Page, is a collaborative effort of leading financial education organizations, nonprofit consumer credit counseling organizations and financial institutions. It was designed to help consumers manage credit, examine their spending habits, access their credit records and contact hundreds of money management and debt counseling advisors.

"Technology has changed how Americans spend their money and how they gather information," said Tim Becker, Vice President at Bank of America. "While credit transactions provide an increased level of security and convenience, they also require that people actively manage their spending to avoid problems down the road."

A new website can make it easier for consumers to take stock of and manage their credit.

- Review your credit history. You can order an instant, secure copy of your credit report from the CreditPage website.
- Review your credit card statement. Become familiar with your interest rate, the statement closing date and the balance due date.
- Determine if you could be headed for financial difficulty. If you're having trouble paying your bills, you may want to consult a credit counselor.

"The success of our economy has sparked a rapid growth in consumer spending and an expanding array of payment options," said Ira Aurit, President of the Forms Group. "Logging onto CreditPage provides consumers an opportunity to take stock of their credit situation to be sure they're getting the most from the dollars they're spending."

Fun and Food

Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church will hold its Fun and Food Festival on Sun., June 6, at 1951 North Ave. in Sacramento. Activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a breakfast of ham and eggs plus all the pancakes you can eat. This will be followed by games, bingo, music, delicious international foods and fun for the entire family. A special silent auction will be conducted for prizes of outstanding value. This year's raffle prizes include $500 first place, $250 second place and three $100 prizes. In addition, there are eighteen special prizes that include a Disneyland package which includes two all-day passes plus an overnight stay, gift certificates, products and food. You need not be present to win. More information may be obtained by calling 992-1244.

Church Bazaar

Trinity Presbyterian Church will hold its annual bazaar Sat., June 5 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. The bazaar includes something for the entire family, including a giant rummage sale, food and fun and games. The rummage sale includes such items as furniture, collectibles, children's clothes and toys, plants and books. Whitey's chili is a popular item at the food booth, as well as hot dogs, nachos and baked goods. The Trinity Quilters group will raffle off their beautiful hand quilted "Butterfly" quilt. Come join in the fun at 1500 Park Blvd. Call Barbara at 371-8973 for more information.
